

Scavenger Hunts

After some positive feedback about the scavenger hunts that I have posted, I have found another two which are numeracy based and will help your child to think critically. You can also take this opportunity to use the found items to practice phonics; what sound does the item start with? What is the middle sound? What is the sound at the end? Can you blend the sounds? Can you write the sounds?

If your child is not at this stage, please do not panic, just enjoy the hunt for what it is.

BIGGER OR SMALLER SCAVENGER HUNT

primary playground

- Find something bigger than a crayon but smaller than a banana.
- Find something bigger than a coin but smaller than a clock.
- Find something bigger than a shoe but smaller than a pillow.
- Find something bigger than a paper clip but smaller than a water bottle.
- Find something bigger than a clipboard but smaller than a door.
- Find something bigger than a toy car but smaller than a plate.
- Find something bigger than a TV remote but smaller than the couch.

TALLER OR SHORTER SCAVENGER HUNT

primary playground

- Find something taller than a table but shorter than a door.
- Find something taller than a pencil but shorter than a dresser.
- Find something taller than a cereal box but shorter than a chair.
- Find something taller than a book but shorter than the kitchen counter.
- Find something taller than a spatula but shorter than you.
- Find something taller than a ball but shorter than a tree.
- Find something taller than a shoe but shorter than a ruler.